When people consider the causes of the American Revolution, many point to Great Britain's taxation and economic policies. Fill out the timeline below according to the history of British economic policy with the colonies, and when applicable, make note of the effect those policies had on the relationship between Great Britain and the colonies.

- Taxation of joint-stock companies:
- Navigation Acts of 1651:
- Navigation Acts of 1660:
- Navigation Acts of 1663:
- Molasses Act of 1733:
- Sugar Act of 1764:

Do you think it was a sound fiscal policy to tax the colonies for the debt accrued from the French and Indian War?